Overseas Adoption

Local Family Opens Heart To German Boy

By KEITH GARDNER

In a Catholic convent at Seldasind, Germany—not too far from Adolf Hitler's mountain fortress of Berchtesgaden—a five and one half year old German-American boy is waiting to come to Colma, U.S.A.

For nearly a year, since July of 1951, he has waited for the slow processes of international law to permit Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cheskey, 1823 Louvaine drive, Colma, to adopt him and bring him to this country.

When he does arrive here, he will be the first such adoption in this area; though officials report that a number of other local residents are following the Cheskey's lead. He is expected to arrive via TWA airlines at Mills field sometime in the near future.

The youngster's name at the present moment is Karl Wehrmann. When he becomes a legal resident of this country, his adopted parents will ask the courts to change it to Tommy—Tommy Cheskey.

They hope to enroll Tommy—or Karl—at the new Holy Angel's school, now under construction in Colma. But it is rather doubtful that he speaks much English.

About all the Cheskey's know of Tommy is that he is the son of a German mother and an American GI father, that his mother released him for adoption, and that he has brown eyes and brown hair. That seems to be enough for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Cheskey have been married 19 years and are childless. Over two years ago, they decided to adopt a child. They applied through an adoption agency in San Mateo, but as Mr. Cheskey tells it:

"We were about the first ones to put in applications down there, but nothing much happened. We waited nearly two years, and began to get kind of discouraged. It seemed like an awfully slow business."

They might have continued to wait for a local child to be put up for adoption, but one day, in a newspaper Sunday supplement, they ran across a story about European children who needed American homes.

Shortly afterwards, they wrote to the Displaced Persons Commission, branch of the U. S. State department that handles foreign adoptions. European representatives of the commission picked a child in Germany that they thought the Cheskeys would like. It was a good choice as far as Mr. and Mrs. Cheskey were concerned.

Then began the red tape. They had to send affidavits of assur-

THE 1952 AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY campaign to raise funds for the fight against cancer through education, research and service has been very successful in the northern section of San Mateo county, according to Mrs. Ann Eason (shown above) north county chairman. Also pictured is George Dado, president of the San Mateo county branch of the society. To date, Mrs. Eason announced, Daly City residents have contributed $472.41 towards the fund. Colma has collected more than $300. Bayshore and Brisbane are scheduled to report in the near future. The drive will continue through April 30.

A Judge Should Have Dignity

Does Charles Becker, candidate for the municipal judgeship, know that a circular questioning the freedom of the press was circulated here last Saturday?

The proclamation was headed: "Is Your Newspaper A Free Press? Do You Think Your Local Paper Prints All The Facts, All The News? If You Do, You Are Being Fooled."

We feel sure that Mr. Becker could not be a party to such slanderous statements as appeared in the circular, not only because it would be beneath the dignity of a judge to be a party to such an attack, but that even an attorney would weigh the evidence before jumping to erroneous conclusions.

The circular charges the press with failing to publish Becker's publicity releases (called news releases.) Had the writers taken the time to examine the simple facts they could never have made such an assertion.

Despite this, the circular issued last Saturday claims, "the press has refused to publish any of it (publicity releases.) But a far more important issue at stake here is the dignity of the office Becker seeks to gain.

Becker himself in a publicity release said this week: "I had hoped from the outset of this campaign that it would be waged openly and fairly and with the DIGNITY becoming of the office we seek."

Perhaps Becker had better begin to read his own publicity releases...in THE RECORD at least.

Commission Set Up Slated For Daly City

An enabling act to create three commissions for police, fire and planning will be passed at the regular meeting of the city council Monday evening.

Agreement was reached on the newest step in government at a caucus meeting of the council Monday night. The commission set-up was included in the platform of the two recently elected councilmen, and was generally acceptable to the other council members.

The commissions will consist of three laymen appointed by the city. They will act in an advisory capacity to the council, but will have no official power.

Only one of the commissions is new—planning. Formerly, the police commission was made up of city council members. The fire commission was earlier abolished when the new full time fire department was put into operation.

Purpose of divorcing these bodies from the council is twofold. First, they will take over much of the work of the council which is now badly pressed for time. Second, they will be made up of men actually experienced in the respective fields of fire, planning and police work, who will be in a position to give expert advice to the council.

Previous to this move, Daly City had only one independent commission — the Recreation Commission.

Other business before the caucus meeting Monday included:

1. Appointment of Officer Dave Hansen as sergeant of police. (The actual appointment will be made at the open meeting Monday.) Hansen, 26, is a veteran of World War II, and was recalled for Korean duty. He was released from the Marines shortly after he was wounded in the Inchon landing.

2. Councilman James Kennedy was named to replace former Councilman Fred Bertetta as a member on the North County Sanitary district board. The board is made up of three members, Kennedy, A. J. Gaggero and Supervisor Tom Hickey. Its purpose is to govern sanitation problems in the Daly City area.

3. The following council committees were appointed: transportation, Joseph Verducci and Edward Dennis; utilities, Kennedy and Gaggero; finance, Gaggero and Dennis; administrative, Dennis and Kennedy. Mayor Paul Green will serve as an ex-officio member of all the committees.

YOUTH BACK AT OLD RACKET -- BURGLARY

A seven-year-old boy with a long criminal record was nabbed by Daly City police here Monday, after he had taken $27 from the home of R. L. Echols, 10 Bepler street.

The youngster had none of his loot left when arrested. He said he spent some, and gave away the rest.

According to police, the child has a record of some length. He wanders around, trying doors to homes. When one is open he enters and helps himself.

Psychiatric treatment at Hillcrest juvenile home has done litt'e good. He is now back in Hillcrest.

Sunderland's Job Status Under Study By City Attorney

Sunderland May Go To Superior Court

W. W. Sunderland is still uncertain today whether he is, or is not chief of police.

The latest development in Sunderalnd's attempt to regain his job as head of the local police department was highlighted by his statement today that "I will continue my fight to clear my name." How far he is prepared to go to this end he would not say.

At a meeting of the civil service board of review last Friday night, Sunderland's case was referred back to City Attorney Frank Blum. The board said the circumstances were such that it had no jurisdiction in the case, Dan Andersen, clerk of the board, declared.

"As Sunderland's letter of August 27 indicates he wished to retire as of April 1, the board of review has little to do with the case," Andersen said.

While on April 1 the city proceeded on the "off the cuff" opinion of Blum in rejecting Sunderland's attempt to return as chief, Andersen said that Blum still has to turn in an official opinion.

That opinion is expected to concur with the council's attitude that Sunderland officially retired when he signed the letter which put him on sick leave last August.

Andersen said it would be from one to two weeks before Blum's opinion is submitted. At that time Andersen, as clerk of the civil service board, will notify Sunderland of Blum's views. After that, the next move will be up to Sunderland.

Sunderland has indicated he is prepared to take the case to the superior court. Whether or not he will follow this course of action depends on the advice of his lawyers.

Cooperation Pledge Given Recreation Group By Council

Work Expected Soon On Utility Buildings

A promise of a bright new future for the recreation program in Daly City was forthcoming at the regular meeting of the Daly City Recreation Commission Tuesday evening.

Joseph Verducci and Edward J. Dennis, the city's two new councilmen, both promised to do everything in their power to expedite the recreation program. They said there would be no more lack of cooperation between the council and the commission.

Denis, who until elected to the council was a member of the commission, said he was preparing to resign. As yet no one has been named to take his place.

Also present at the meeting was Dan Andersen, city administrator. Andersen said action was pending on the construction of utility buildings at the new parks, and said the long delay was about over.

(Dennis said he would meet with Mayor Paul Green this week to discuss the problem of the buildings.)

Meanwhile, Andersen told THE RECORD this week that bids probably will be called for at least one of these buildings at the Monday night meeting of the city council.

"We have drawn up the plans for the larger building at Marchbanks parks, and this should be up for bid Monday," Andersen said.

Delay in the construction has been due to a limited amount of funds left in the original $101,000 bond issue, and the necessity of building a structure large enough for lavatories and equipment rooms, Andersen reported.

Train Fare Hike Asked On SP Line

Coach fare on the Daylight and Starlight trains of the Southern Pacific may be boosted.

The State Public Utilities Commission will hold a hearing May 1 at 10 a.m. to consider such a request from the railroad.

Peninsula commuter fares would not be affected. The maximum increase in the San Francisco-Los Angeles one way fare would be $1.

Local Boy Returns From Korean Front

Back from the Korean war front today is Pfc. Jack D. Terry of Daly City.

He was one of 1280 passengers aboard the U. S. transport Gen. M. M. Patrick that landed at Seattle Wednesday.

Pfc. Terry has been on the Korean battle front for the past year.

SCHOOL CONTEMPLATES USE OF 4 TO 6 CLASSROOMS IN NORTH END OF CENTER

Students of the Jefferson elementary school district probably will use from four to six rooms of the Community Center Building for class rooms next fall, it was learned today.

The "probably" will not be resolved into a certainty until such time as the city is able to raise enough money to complete at least a portion of the building's north end.

H. Z. Weibel, superintendent of schools, said he and Mayor Paul Green surveyed the building for possible school use last week. Weibel will make a report of his findings to the school board this evening, April 24.

His report will show:

1. It probably will be better to use the north end of the building, so as to leave the almost completed auditorium on the south end open for the public.

2. Before the north end rooms can be used, the city will have to find the funds to install an electrical system. (The city has spent $24,000 for installation of such a system, but only in the south end.)

3. A heating system will be needed. However, Weibel believes it may be possible to install a temporary system, until such time as the city can raise about $65,000 for a permanent plant.

4. How many classrooms are to utilized depends on how much the school board can raise for equipping the rooms. "This is definitely a limiting factor," Weibel said. "We have a limited budget, and may not be able to put out too much for such things as desks and other equipment."

Meanwhile, the city council is tentatively considering a try at Union Questions Aero Motors Co.

Refusal of Aero Motors, 6465 Mission street, to sign a union contract will be aired before the San Mateo county Central Labor Committee Friday evening.

Local 1414 of the auto mechanics union (AFL) is asking that Aero Motors be placed on the "do not patronize" list of the union.

Frank Martorana, manager of the company, said today he is considering signing an agreement, but as of today can see no reason for such action. Martorana says he has but one mechanic working for him, and he is paying the man "regular wage scale and better."

"I propose to be a fair American

Callan Supports School Tax Issue

To the Voters:

I personally recommend a YES vote to continue the present tax rate limit of the Jefferson Union high school.

Each year more students are entering the school. We are embarking on a building program to care for these children.

Should the tax rate limit revert to the original 75 cents the school's revenue would be less than now, even with the proposed increase in assessed valuation.

I am a taxpayer but I put the interest of the children first. They will be the future citizens of our community and nation. We must prepare them to be good citizens.

We of the board really try to operate the high school so as to save all the cost we can. But, this district has low assessed valuation and the increased rate voted five years ago should be continued.

I can assure you that the board will not waste your money and will hold the rate down below the limit set, when possible, as we did last year in lowering the tax rate by ten cents.

In fact we were the only high school board in the country that has been able to cut the tax rate during the past few years.

Westlake Improvement Assn. Meets May 13

The Westlake Improvement Association will meet Tuesday, May 13.

This meeting is slated for 8 p.m. at Jefferson high school.

George Pingry, president of the association, invites all Westlake residents to attend.

Anti-Narcotics Forum Set Monday

Local Parents Invited To Attend

A capacity attendance is anticipated for the San Mateo county educational anti-narcotics forum scheduled for Monday night, 8:30 p.m., April 28, at the Baywood Theatre, according to committee chairman Walter Jack.

The San Mateo county superintendent of schools office reports great interest among PTA officers and school principals who have been invited to attend the forum while Carl Cunningham, chamber of commerce president, points out that the chamber office has received numerous telephone calls and reservations as a result of invitations sent to civic leaders, improvement clubs, service clubs, fraternal organizations throughout the county.

Fred Wyckoff, dynamic prosecutor in the district attorney's office, has indicated his interest to join the panel of experts on the forum which includes Walter Creighton, James Tormey, Elmer Gentry, Sheriff Earl Whitmore, and Dr. D. W. Boudett.

The latest anti-narcotics film will be shown and a question and answer period in which the public will participate will complete the program.

COUNTY RESIDENTS STILL STRIKEBOUND

Transportation and building are two problems still facing northern San Mateo county residents, as labor tieups continue to plague the area.

With Greyhound bus drivers still on strike, residents of Daly City either use car pools to get about on the Peninsula, or stay at home. There seems little hope that negotiations will resolve the dispute in the near future. Busses have not run for 52 days.

All construction also is halted in the area. The big Westlake building program has been halted, as carpenters stayed off the job for the 22nd day. Some 12,000 strikers and 30,000 allied workers in four counties are involved.

Inspectors Praise Jeff Heat System

"This is the finest boiler room I ever saw," said an official from the state fire marshal's office recently as he inspected the heating system at Jefferson Union high school.

The three big boilers, the filters, the chlorine regulator, and laundry equipment are located under the office and lobby of the swimming pool. They are cared for by William Lewis, who also operates the laundry.

"The boiler room is as clean as a hospital," one visitor said.

The inspection was made in connection with the plan to convert to automatic gas as an economy move and to provide more automatic heat control for the swimming pool.

Council Profile

Edward Dennis No Newcomer To The Local Political Scene

(Ed. Note: This is the first of two "profiles" on Daly City's new city councilmen. Within the near future THE RECORD will run another feature on Joseph Verducci.)

By KEITH GARDNER

Despite his recent election to the Daly City council, no one can call Edward J. Dennis a newcomer to local politics.

But even his staunchest supporters won't deny that Dennis has had his political ups and downs.

In the hotly-contested 1944 council race, Citizen Dennis won his political spurs by defeating two popular incumbents in the battle for seats on the city's ruling body.

With such an auspicious beginning in public affairs, it was something of a surprise to many when Dennis applied to the voters in 1948 for re-election and was turned down. The defeat was not made pleasant by the fact that only four votes more would have turned it into a victory.

At this point Eddie—as he prefers to be called—slipped partially from the public eye for four years, yet managed to keep his foot in the door by serving as a member of the Daly City Recreation commission, a position he vacated this week after re-winning the title of Councilman.

Councilman Dennis reports himself as 43 years of age and a native of Daly City. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dennis, were pioneer property owners here.

The Dennis boy attended Jefferson elementary school and Jefferson high, and at about the age of 18, accompanied his father in some extensive traveling of the United States.

In 1929 he joined the ranks of the great employed by going to work as a milk wagon driver for a local dairying firm. This job he held for seven years before switching to more lucrative work in San Francisco.

Meanwhile, he had married and began the family which now includes himself; his wife, Hilda; his 14-year-old son, Edward, Jr.; and his 10-year-old daughter, Carolyn.

Andersen was instructed by the commission to find out from the council just what powers the commission will have as to the disposition of the Community Center building.

Two San Mateo County Bridges Get Much Use

A total of 230,785 vehicles used San Mateo-Hayward and Dumbarton bridges during the month of March, it has been announced my Howard C. Wood, principal bridge engineer for this district.

There was a total of $92,375 in fees collected on the two bridges.

The total for San Mateo-Hayward bridge was $61,184 and for Dumbarton bridge $31,090.

Average traffic daily for March over the San Mateo Hayward span was 5199, and for the Dumbarton 2575.

San Mateo Negro Woman Is Denied Permit By Council

A San Mateo Negro woman's application to operate a beauty shop in her home was turned down Monday evening by the San Mateo city council, by a 3-2 vote.

The applicant, Mrs. Otelia Guidry, asked a variance to operate a beauty shop in her home. The planning commission last week had recommended a denial on grounds it constituted a commercial use in a residential zone and would involve parking cars in the front setback area.

Pointing out that nobody from the neighborhood objected, Councilman Edward J. Reilly said he thought the planning commission was "sometimes a little too arbitrary," and moved to grant the woman's request. His motion was lost for want of a second.

The matter was brought up by Reilly three different times during the meeting, and the matter was reconsidered. He moved to set aside the earlier vote denying the application, and the battle was on again. However, the motion was finally defeated, 3-2.

The entire debate was marked by lack of audience participation, with no one appearing to oppose Mrs. Guidry's request. She, in turn, presented her application with dignity, but at the end was obviously at a loss to understand the commission and council stands on the matter.

Community Chest Chairman Named

Glen O. Smallcomb, president of the Community Chest of San Mateo county, anounced the appointment of Edward E. Keller of San Mateo as county campaign chairman for this fall's drive. Mr. Keller was introduced to the members of the official board at its meeting held Monday evening.

Keller is manager for northern California of the Reliance Life Insurance Company of Pittsburg, Penn., with headquarters at 105 Montgomery Street, San Francisco. He served as a member of the San Mateo city council for 8 years, also as Mayor for a short time. He is a past Exalted Ruler of the Elks Lodge of San Mateo, also past President of the San Francisco 20-30 Club, also a past National Trustee and a past President and State Governor of Civitan International.

He is a former director of the San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce. He is an enthusiastic golfer and an active member of the Peninsula Golf and Country Club. A native California, Keller was born in San Francisco and has been a resident of San Mateo for 23 years. He and his wife Katherine live at 18 Mounds road, San Mateo.

Mayors Back Sagehorn Bid

Andrew Byrd, newly-elected head of the Burlingame city government, became the third prominent Peninsula mayor to support the Congressional candidacy of County Treasurer Al Sagehorn this week.

Byrd announced that he would serve as chairman of the Sagehorn campaign committee in Burlingame.

Previously, Mayor Carl Britschgi had accepted a corresponding leadership position in Redwood City, and retiring Mayor Ed Burton of San Carlos has been actively campaigning for Sagehorn on the mid-Peninsula.

Mrs. Reed Bids For B'Moor Board

Mrs. Ann Reed, 828 Beechwood drive, this week announced she will be a candidate for the Broadmoor Property Owners executive board.

A past treasurer of the Broadmoor VFW Auxiliary, Mrs. Reed is well known in local civic and business circles. She is presently employed by Gambles Western Auto, and has wide experience in the business profession. She is a member of the Business and Professional Womens' Club.

Previous to entering the business world, Mrs. Reed was employed as a teacher. She has 10 years experience in the teaching high school and junior college English and history.

During the war she was a director of an eastern USO, a job which she held on a volunteer basis for over five years.

The board election is slated for May 9.

City Attorney Ponders— Can You Kill A Dead Man?

SAN CARLOS—Dennis Hession, new city attorney here has a legal problem on his hands that may prove unsolveable.

The question is, can a dead man be killed?

Seems that Wilson Abbott, 60-year-old transient, was killed in an auto accident April 6 on El Camino Real. He was San Carlos' first traffic fatality of 1952.

The problem arose when police discovered that Abbott had been declared legally dead over 20 years ago when he deserted his wife in Minnesota. She waited the seven years that law requires then had the courts declare him dead.

San Carlos is waiting for Hession to decide whether their traffic record is still unblemished, or not.

Plans Are Presented For Blood Bank Construction

Plans for construction of a $100,000 building to house the San Mateo county blood bank were presented to the county planning commission in Redwood City last week by Dr. Carl Hoag of San Mateo, blood bank president.

Although the planning commission granted a use permit for construction of the building on the Peninsula hospital grounds south of Millbrae, chairman Leslie Nichols suggested that similar permist be sought for both Millbrae and Burlingame.

Whether the Peninsula hospital property is incorporated, and if so whether it belongs to Millbrae or Burlingame is awaiting a superior court hearing next month.

PG&E Completes County Tax Paym't.

San Mateo County property tax payments for the 1951-52 tax year completed today by Pacific Gas and Electric Company total $1,-077,681, Grover S. Tracy, manager of the Company's San Francisco Division, anonunced.

Ad valorem taxes the Company paid to Daly City on its properties within the city amounted to $6,364.

The Company, by far the largest single property taxpayer in California, made property tax payments for the year totaling $29,-317,494, to cities, counties, school districts and special districts in 18 counties in which it owns property.

Federal and state income taxes and other federal, state and local taxes amounting to $36,348,321 brought the Company's total bill for the tax year to $65,865,815.

PG&E paid about 43 per cent of its total property taxes, or $12,-317,120, directly for the support of public schools. Taxes for county purposes totaled $13,334,092 and payments to city governments amounted to $2,149,821. Taxes levied by various other districts totaled $1,416,461.

"Those are significant figures. They show how business-managed companies help ease the local tax burden, and how, by their contributions, they help support necessary schools and local government. PG&E pays more than half of all property taxes in some counties," Tracy said.

PG&E's property taxes in San Mateo County include $286,725 for county government, $544,067 in support of public schools, $97,177 in other district taxes and $149,712 paid to cities.

Knight accepted the invitation to appear at the San Mateo county GOP fund raising affair by telephone from his office in the state capitol.

The Lt. Governor's several notable speaking appearances in the county during past years have always been enthusiastically received. Bohannon said Knight would have an important message regarding the forthcoming elections both from a local and national standpoint.

Bohannon said tickets for the $100 a plate affair are available at the Republican headquarters at 45 North B Street, San Mateo (DIamond 4-0488).

Local Schools Plan Programs To Celebrate Public Schools Week

The annual Public Schools Week, to be observed throughout the state from April 28 through May 2, will be the occasion of special programs and events in all Daly City schools.

This week will have an added significance this year, for it was just 100 years ago this spring that California's first state superintendent of public instruction appeared before the legislature and asked the first appropriation to get the public school system underway.

John G. Marvin, first state superintendent, once said, "In a republic knowledge is the great leveler; it is the true democracy; it levels up, and never levels down."

Jefferson Union high school will note the occasion the evening of Friday, May 2. Exhibits, demonstrations, music and other attractions will be on the program in the auditorium. The doors will be opened at 7:30 p.m., and the entire program will be located in the auditorium and chemistry laboratory.

Teachers Talk

Each department will use a portion of the auditorium. Each teacher will be present to talk with visitors, and students will participate in various demonstrations.

The chemistry classes will be doing laboratory work, and so will remain in their own room nearby. The girls' physical education department will demonstrate the modern dance, and the boys will present tumbling acts.

All parents and mothers interested in the school are urged to attend this program. Visitors may come and go at will, as the entire program is informal.

"This is your school," said Pete Markovich, chairman of the board of trustees, "Come in and see what it is doing. You'll find it interesting, and you may be a bit surprised."

Open House

All nine schools in the elementary district also will present special open houses and programs during the week.

The Woodrow Wilson school is holding open house Monday evening, April 28, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Children's work will be displayed on each desk. Class propjects, arts and crafts will be in evidence according to grade level.

The Westlake school will hold its open house next Tuesday from 1-3 p.m. A demonstration of classroom work is scheduled.

The Garden Village school will hold open house Tuesday from 9 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Students' work will be on display and curriculum activities will be demonstrated in the classrooms. A student committee will act as host to direct guests.

Students Work

The Jefferson elementary school will hold open house Tuesday evening from 7-9 p.m. All classrooms will be open and students' work will be displayed. Teachers will be present to greet parents and friends, and a student committee will be on hand to direct guests.

Open house at Colma school is scheduled Tuesday from 7-9 p.m. Students' work and activities, with the emphasis on a display of fundamentals, as well as sample copies of student texts, will be exhibited in the classrooms for the interest and orientation of parents and friends.

Hall and classroom displays of student work will be a feature of the open house Wednesday evening from 7-9 o'clock at the R. S. Tornton school. Individual child's work will be on desks in the classrooms.

Texts

At the General Pershing School, parents and friends are invited to attend the open house Wednesday from 7-9 p.m. Children's work will be on display—also student texts and audio-visual equipment used in the classes.

The Crocker school will hold open house Thursday from 7:38-9 p.m. Pupil's individual work and class projects will be on display. A speech demonstration will be given in the library.

Council Profile

1946 saw Dennis changing jobs again. This time to become president of the Milk Wagon Driver's Union of San Francisco and San Mateo counties. A position he holds at the present time.

Dennis particularly likes to tell how his organization—1250 men strong—achieved one of the best records for high wages and good working conditions in the state without one strike in its history.

He looks upon his recent campaign for councilman as notable for its lack of active vote-hustling on his part, and modestly attributes his win to the work of friends.

For the coming four years, Dennis sees "additional improvements in our fine city. I will support all worthy and progressive steps to make all sections of Daly City a better place to live and play."

ance to local, national and German bureaus. They had to produce recommendations from three different friends. They were thoroughly investigated by state officials ("I don't think money has too much to do with it," says Mr. Cheskey, "as long as you have a home suitable for a child.").

At any rate, they have been married for 19 years, and have made their home in Colma for five years this month. Mr. Cheskey works for the Charles L. Harney construction company, and Mrs. Cheskey is a full-time housekeeper.

That was evidently recommendation enough, for the adoption was approved.

Now they have the prob'em of transporting Tommy to the United States. A TWA hostess—at the Cheskey's expense—will fly to Germany and meet Tommy. She will accompany him on the return trip as far as New York.

From New York to Mills field Tommy is on his own. But the plane will make just one brief stop at Chicago, and it won't be necessary for the young German-American to leave his seat.

Mr. and Mrs. Cheskey don't vet know when he will arrive. But after nearly a year of waiting, they do know that they'll be very glad to see him.

The council believes once the people recognize the need for the building they will not reject a bond issue. Such an issue was turned down last year, but by a small majority.

Ganino Calls For More Interest In SMJC Activities

A wider interest in the affairs of the San Mateo Junior college is being urged by Anthony Ganino in his bid for election to one of the two vacancies on the Junior College board of trustees.

A former junior college student, Ganino stated he had found that quite a few people considered the school as being run by the city of San Mateo.

Actually the citizens of Daly City pay a substantial amount of taxes to maintain the college and as such are entitled to be informed as to the manner in which the school's business is conducted, Ganino said.

If elected Ganino declared he would make monthly releases to the press with regard to matters on which the board took action in order that taxpayers would know how and why their money was being spent.

Ganino is president of the San Mateo Eagle Aerie and during his term in office arrangements were made to purchase a $35,000 building which will be made into a modern $50,000 Eagle club house.

The White Cloud And Civil Defense

Local reaction to the televising of the Tuesday morning atomic blast was as varied as the number of viewers.

One woman expressed the sentiment of many an unthinking resident who has come to expect bigger and better things from television.

"Why, I stayed home all morning just to see a little cloud go up in the air. There was nothing to see at all. What a flop," she said.

Coming after scores of dispatches from awed and amazed correspondents who covered the explosion, this seemed like an anti-climax.

That "little cloud" we are told was capable of destroying most of New York city.

All of which probably goes to explain the apathy towards the local civilian defense effort. People just can't get it through their heads that similar "little clouds" may one day hover over the Bay Area.

When that happens we will all have a grandstand seat, and won't need any television. Then we will need an adequate civilian defense program. At the rate we are going, at least on a local level, there will not be such a program.

Let's hope we never see any of these "little white clouds" except on television sets issuing from a proving ground. However, let us pray that should we see the same scene from the shattered remnants of our homes we will have some means of picking up the pieces. And that means is adequate civilian defense.

What Happened To The Library Committee?

It is hardly fair to expect the city council to get everything done in one evening, but by way of a reminder we would like to suggest they remember the local library.

At the Monday evening meeting the council set up council committees to expedite city business. Completely overlooked was the library committee.

In the past, the library has been the forgotten child. Only through the persistence of City Administrator Dan Andersen and THE RECORD was action taken last year to paint and remodel the Mission street building.

We need not go into the importance of having a fine library in our community. Anyone who believes in the merits of education will grant a library is more than necessary.

Therefore, we would recommend that the council take immediate steps to establish the library committee. Better still, we hope to see a library commission or board, made up of local citizens who are sincerely interested in the education of the community.

Unfortunately, our local councilmen have neither the time nor inclination to visit the library.

Of the five councilmen, only two hold library cards. They are Joseph Verducci and Paul Green.

This is certainly not meant as a criticism, but merely to point out the necessity of setting up a library board whose members are actually interested in the library.

We hope to see the council take action on this suggestion soon. Anyone familiar with the problems of the local library will recognize the necessity for a constant vigilence and interest by the city and community at large.

Daly City Turns To Commissions

Joseph Verducci and Edward J. Dennis, Daly City's newest councilmen, deserve to be congratulated today for their fast action in carrying out campaign promises.

Monday night the city council decided to set up several commissions. These three-men groups will act in an advisory capacity to the council.

We distinctly remember that the commission form of government was recommended by both Dennis and Verducci.

The council is slated to pass an enabling act Monday night to set up a police, fire and planning commission.

At some later date members are to be named to these respective bodies.

It will be interesting to see who these members are. We hope they will be men whose background fit them for such responsibility. We also hope they will be men with the same courage and foresight as those now serving on the Daly City recreation commission.

As we understand it, these commissions are to act in an advisory capacity. This implies that the council will follow advice. Unfortunately, this has not always been true in the past, as witnessed by the relations between the aforesaid recreation commission and council. Too, too often suggestions made by this group were neatly shelved and forgotten.

However, if Dennis and Verducci (and for that matter, the other councilmen) act with the same wisdom and foresight as displayed in setting up the commissions, we do not expect too much difficulty.

These commissions are an ideal answer to a city which has outgrown a part time city council. It is to be hoped that the city councilmen will recognize their limitations and pay close attention to the recommendations of its commissions.

Let's "Throw The Book" At Dope Pushers

The death penalty for big time commercial pushers of dope was urged this week by Fred M. Wyckoff, assistant San Mateo county district attorney.

This is an interesting suggestion, and one well worth the study of every citizen. We think it has real merit, although we question the necessity of going so far as the gas chamber.

Wyckoff is in a position to know of what he speaks. As a veteran prosecutor he has waged a constant battle against county crime, and has succeeded in chalking up some pretty impressive victories.

It is certain that next to murder, dope pushing is about as vicious a crime as any we have to deal with. Men who make their living by preying on the weaknesses of youth deserve to be put away for a long, long time.

We would recommend life imprisonment for any really "big time" narcotics operators, especially for those who have been convicted more than once.

This, we believe, would do much to curb the desire of a few low life to make a fast buck by ruining the youth of the land.

Those interested in this angle of the narcotics issue, and other problems are invited to attend a meeting slated for Monday night, April 28, at 8:30 p.m. in the Baywood Theatre, San Mateo. At that time Wyckoff and a panel of experts on narcotics will discuss anti-narcotic measures for San Mateo county.

Board Of Underwriters Official Questions Validity Of Recent Article

Mr. J. E. Kennedy, Chief
Daly City Fire Department

Dear Chief:

Your letter of April 7 addressed to Mr. Loren S. Bush has been received in reference to the various improvements made in the fire protection facilities of Daly City as well as those planned for the future.

Your reference to the recently published article in your local paper purporting to quote officials of this office that we plan to regrade Daly City this year and increase the National Board classification from 4 to 6 is an absolutely erroneous and unauthorized statement as far as this office is concerned. Furthermore, the purported quotation of a 20 per cent increase in rates pending such a regrading is not a statement of this office in as much as we have no jurisdiction in the matter of insurance rates, and under no circumstances do we give such data to anyone, privately or publicly.

As you know, we have consulted with you in regard to your proposed improvement program, and you are perfectly correct in assuming that no action will be taken on our part without consultation with you and your city officials in any matter involving the fire protection of your community. We sincerely regret that unauthorized and erroneous information was released publicly without knowledge of this office.

You may feel free to use any statement in this letter to correct the misinformation publicly made regarding your city and and its fire protection facilities.

Yours very truly,
E. C. Adams
District Engineer

(Ed. Note: THE RECORD stands by its article published March 20, 1952. Despite the denial by Mr. Adams, THE RECORD has sources which inform us that the insurance rates as of March 20 were under study, and a contemplated raise was pending. The only question seems to be when the new rates were to have gone into effect. THE RECORD said within the year, but developments since that time may extend this deadline.

We can understand Mr. Adams ire at the article being published without his clearance. However, we still maintain the body of the story was correct.)

San Mateo County Property Taxes Have Jumped 318 Per Cent In 10 Years

Property taxes in San Mateo county have gone up 318 per cent in the past ten years, California Taxpayers' Association said today.

The property tax levy for general county purposes has gone up 249 per cent from fiscal 1943 to fiscal 1952.

The levy for municipal government purposes has gone up 197 per cent.

For school districts, the levy has has gone up 425 per cent.

For special districts, the levy increased 561 per cent from 1942-43 to 1951-52.

Statewide, property taxes have gone up 169 per cent from 1942-43 to 1951-52. County levies are up 145 per cent; city levies up 108 per cent; school district levies up 236 per cent; and special district levies on property up 185 per cent.

Property taxes are a major source of support of local government in California, the Taxpayers' association said, pointing out that subventions, shared taxes, other kinds of taxes such as the sales tax, and licenses and fees also are used to finance local government activities.

"The property tax bill directly reflects how much local governments spend," the association said.

"If property taxes for 1952-53 are to be held even to this year's levels, economy must be put into the local government budgets now being made up."

Millbrae Teachers Will Receive Raise Next Year

Millbrae elementary school teachers will get an annual salary raise of $300 next year, and $500 if the voters approve.

Trustees Monday night approved the $300 raise. It will mean no increase in the tax rate.

However, a "straw vote" will be taken at the May 16 school board election to determine if voters will approve a slight raise in the district's $1.20 tax rate to pay for the $500 annual raise. The $500 raise would bring salaries up from a range of $3,000 to $4,620 to $3,500 to $4,920.

Bill Katz . . . FROM A CORNER

Once upon a time men had flat noses. Their noses were flat because they ran into trees. They didn't see the trees.

This was embarassing. Then some bright fellow discovered glasses. With glasses, men no longer ran into trees. Now their noses aren't flat, just other parts of their anatomy.

Glasses are a big help. But there are exceptions. It is better to look at ugly people without glasses. Then everyone looks just fine.

That is why nearsighted people always believe a woman is a goddess at 50 feet. Farsighted people know better, but they're not telling. Many farsighted people escape matrimony.

Distinction

Glasses add distinction to any man . . . at least the ones on the end of his nose. It is debatable whether other kinds of glasses, full of liquid, ever did a man any good at all.

What glasses do to women is questionable. Most women who need them rarely wear them, at least not until they have their hooks into a man.

Women feel glasses detract from their beauty. It is not polite to point out they rarely have any beauty to detract from. In fact, it is downright dangerous.

Fashions

There are fashions in glasses. Some prefer "old fashions," but this is another type of glass.

Scholars go in for heavy black rims. These hide their jaundiced, hollow eyes and lend an aura of mystery and refinement to otherwise nondescript faces. At least that is what they think.

The rimless type of glasses will be found crowning the nose of businessmen and communists. Glasses are a great leveller.

Interesting

Women's fashions are somewhat more interesting. Their glasses are shaped into forms befitting a drunken draftsman. Such forms make them alluring. Just what they lure has never been satisfactorily answered.

Most people wear glasses because in this complex world it is necessary to see. Where would they be without being able to see a 20 minute commercial on TV, a western at the movies, or a comic magazine? A cynic might say better off, but we know better.

Exercise

One way to chuck glasses is to exercise the eyes. Trouble is that athletes, with the will power to exercise, rarely wear glasses anyway. All the others, who should flex an eyeball, are too lazy.

At one time wearing glasses was a distinction, a sign of nobility. Now its a sign you can afford to keep an oculist in business.

Glasses make the perfect excuse for snubbing your neighbors, stray cats and little boys with running noses. Just take them off, and you can't see anything anyway.

Keep your glasses off while crossing a street and your wife will spend the rest of her days collecting your life insurance policy. Better still, take the glasses off your wife and shove her out in the street. You'll end your life poor but happy.

Stan Bibbero . . . BIBBERO'S BABBLE

Let us consider the common man with the common cold. Since I have just been inflicted with this miserable malady, I feel well qualified to discuss the subject at length.

Nowadays, of course, it is not the fashion to call the cold a cold. It has now been dignified by a misnomer, namely the flu. This, despite the fact any doctor will tell you that 99 out of 100 people who think they have the flu, don't. But who wants to admit he has been stricken by that unaristocratic illness—a cold?

No one sympathizes with the unhappy subject. He doesn't feel he can stay home from work with "just a cold." That privilege is reserved for a broken leg, pneumonia, or such. He comes to the office with red eyes and nose to match, equipped with a super box of Kleenex, and a lousy disposition. The throat is sore, the back, head and teeth ache, the forehead is flushed. In short, he feels like the bloody dickens.

So what happens? The boss looks at him critically, and wonders acidly what kind of a night he must have spent with the bottle. His fellow employees spend most of their time thinking up genial and pleasant insults. After a while the subject is bordering on severe hysteria, and when a genuinely sympathetic friend asks in naive wonderment, "Whatsa matter Mac, gotta cold?" he is apt to snarl—

"No, you jerk. I'm training for a martini drinking contest."

Then there are the dear friends who have special remedies, used in their families for generations with unfailing success, they assure you.

I, personally, counted 324 such remedies during the first 48 hours of intense, silent and heroic suffering. Each holder of a secret formula approaches with an expression of conspiracy, and whispers the magic prescription, as though giving away the map to a lost treasure.

Being a gambler at heart, I decided to try a few of these remedies. What the heck, let's live dangerously. I took hot baths and cold baths, slept with the windows up and with the windows down, ate aspirin and antihist, drank fruit juice, alternately starved and gorged myself. Finally, in despair, I gave up, crawled into bed and withdrew into a coma for two days.

Now, as one who has just been through it all—I can even show you my scars—here is a bit of advice. When you get a cold, and you will, pay no attention to anybody. Try no special remedies, which will be forced on you by friends. Just stay home and watch television.

However, there is one remedy, handed down in my family from father to son for many generations. It hasn't failed yet, and goes like this:

"Take the juice from one quart of whiskey. . . ."

Ridgely Cummings . . . HOLLYWOOD

Lord James Blears is a wrestler and something of a local hero in Hollywood because of the phenomenon of television. He weighs 16 stone, which at the rate of 14 pounds to a stone adds up to 224 pounds.

He has a patrician nose with a slightly broadened bridge, due to the fact that it has been broken many times. His ears lie close to his head, but the left one, though shapely, is permanently swollen. This is a mishap resulting from his trade, which frequently requires him to wriggle out of headlocks. The end product is known as a cauliflower.

His eyes are clear, his voice is resonant, his diction is good, his choice of words is excellent and his accent is English.

Lord Blears insists his title is authentic, though there have been articles in the local press casting doubt on it. He told me he was born in Manchester, in the north of England, and came to this country in 1939.

He has plied his trade of professional grappler ever since, except for the war years when he was captured by the Japanese and escaped in March, 1944, by diving off the dock of a Japanese submarine and swimming six miles.

Monetary rewards from wrestling have been considerable but so has the physical punishment. During the last 12 months, he said, he has had 57 stitches taken in his face and body. Surgical stitches, that is. He showed me some of them in his upper lip. A sprice blonde mustache hides the evidence.

My interview with Lord Blears came about by accident. The husky nobleman was sitting in a glass-enclosed booth at Music City, a Hollywood music store, and I was gathering material for a music column.

My companion, a song-writer named Yvonne Caruso, who also happens to be a TV wrestling fan, identified him for me. He was wearing casual sport clothes. His blond wavy hair, worn longish, made me think perhaps he was a movie actor but Yvonne insisted she had watched him wrestle. Thinking a wrestler's taste in music might be good for a paragraph, I introduced myself.

Lord Blears was a model of decorum and courtesy. When he stood up and bade me be seated I was surprised to notice that, despite his 224 pounds, he was not as tall as me, though he was 50 pounds heavier.

First thing we discussed was music. Lord Blears is a jazz addict. He was listening to Oscar Peterson's "Jazz at Carnegie" while in his hand, waiting to be played, was Slim Gaillard's "Opera In Vout," as interpreted by the Groove Juice Symphony. That's what was on the label, no kidding.

I had never heard of the Grove Juice Symphony and admitted, under questioning, that I preferred the classics.

"You should go in and talk with my manager, Captain Leslie Holmes," the wrestler said, pointing to the next booth where a clean-cut young man was bent over a phonograph. "He's listening to the Philharmonic, not the Groove Juice."

Lord Blears has a home in Pacific Palisades, an exclusive suburb of Los Angeles. He said he usually spends Sunday's listening to records, of which he has a large collection. Music puts him in the mood for his work — three wrestling bouts a week.

He was scheduled to wrestle Lou Thez, claimant to the mythical world's championship crown, the week following our interview. I asked him what he thought his chances were.

"I hope to win," he replied.

"Really, on the level?"

"Certainly. Why shouldn't I win?" There was an aggressive note in his response but I didn't take warning.

"I don't think it's in the cards. There's a big build-up for a title match between Lou Thez and Baron Leone." The Baron is another claimant to the world title and the match, when it comes off, figures to draw a capacity house.

"If I beat Thez then I'll wrestle Leone," Lord Blears said with some heat.

I didn't pursue the subject further, not wanting to say anything that might excite him to active displeasure. I was thinking of the plate glass walls around me and how I would hate to cause Clyde Wallichs, proprietor of the store, any unnecessary expense for repairs. Despite the fact I was taller than Lord Blears I had no desire to dispute with him on any but a high intellectual plane.

But I am so sure of my judgment in the matter of who will win between the English nobleman and Lou Thez that I am writing this in advance of their title match. Of course I could be wrong and maybe by the time this is printed Lord Blears will be the world champ. If so it is perfectly okay with me and perhaps the improbable event will add interest to this essay.

At any rate I switched to what I thought would be a less controversial subject, namely Lord Blears' royal title. He was a little sensitive about this too, it developed, probably because of some of the joking stories that had been printed.

"You might write that I am now an American citizen and proud of it," he suggested. "Naturally I had to abandon claim to my title when I took out citizenship papers last year. So far as I know I am the only Englishman to do this, but I consider it a good trade."

The title originated in his family during the 11th century, Lord Blears said. It dates back to the Battle of Hastings, 1066 and all that.

After dropping genealogy we switched back to music, which was fine for my other column but not particularly appropriate here. When I rose to go the grappler thanked me for my interest and inquired in what paper he might expect to find the result of our interview. I told him the probable date. As we were exchanging farewell amenities he drew from the pocket of his blue Oxford jacket, on which he was wearing his family crest, a monocle.

The glass, on a black silk ribbon, was one of the things he affects when entering the ring. He presented it to me with expressions of esteem. I still have the monocle but plan to give it to a little boy named Mark, for on the only occasion on which I have worn it, it drew forth bursts of unappreciative guffaws.

Grand Jury Asks For Added Judge

The San Mateo county grand jury Monday night adopted a resolution urging the state judicial council to assign to the superior court here one outside judge a month as an aid to bringing the court calendar up to date.

Superior judge Murray Draper explained that such an assignment has been made intermittently in the past, and said the grand jury action was designed to encourage the continued help of the judicial council.

Judge Draper said there currently is a backlog of 13 months of cases awaiting trial, adding that this is the "best we've been since July 8, 1950." On March 8, 1952, he said, there were 583 cases awaiting trial here in superior court.

Citizen Group Is Named To Work On Hospital District

Formation of a citizens' campaign committee of residents from each of the areas comprising the Peninsula hospital district for the purpose of urging voters to vote yes June 3 on the $980,000 additional bonds needed to complete the hospital project, has been announced by Luther M. Carr of Burlingame, chairman.

The hospital, which is presently under construction, was approved by the voters in November, 1948. Since then the increase in material and construction costs have exceeded the original estimates.

Originally designed for 100 beds, the hospital plans were redrawn to provide for 140 beds. Later, due to the alarming patient demand in this area, heavier construction materials were worked into the plans to provide for a future expansion to approximately 350 beds.

Carr said that presently the district is 265 beds short of normal requirements. He cited the fact that the population here has more than doubled since 1940, yet only 100 hospital beds have been added in that time.

Sarto Appointed To Aid Knowland

Joe Sarto, Daly City businessman and amateur sports supporter, has been appointed to a key position on the San Mateo county committee which is sponsoring the re-election of Senior U. S. Senator William F. Knowland at the June 3 primaries, it was learned this week.

Becker Raps Bocci Campaign

Judge Charles Becker today formally requested that his opponent for election to the new municipal court, Thomas L. Bocci, refrain from using the campaign terms terms "re-elect," "retain," and "incumbent," in his advertising.

Judge Becker, in a letter to Bocci today, said that it was unfair of Bocci to employ these misleading terms, when it is common knowledge that both men are seeking to be the first judge of the new court.

In requesting that the advertising terms be removed from existing literature, Becker said he felt it more important to the people to present the facts squarely than it is to elect either candidate.

"I had hoped from the outset of this campaign that it would be waged openly and fairly and with the dignity becoming of the office we seek. I still hope that it will be so conducted," Judge Becker's letter stated.

"However, by means of carefully prepared signs and slogans, you have endeavored to make it appear to the voting public that you are the incumbent of this new office by the use of terms "retain" and "re-elect," the letter continued.

Inspector Roy Beecher and Officer Dave Johnstone said the trio had broken a window to gain entrance, then ransacked desk drawers.

The boys were turned over to their parents to wait action by probation officers.

Former San Mateo Gambling Czar Is Hit By Tax Liens

Eimlio (Gamba) Georgetti, former San Mateo county gambling czar, has been slapped with $538,245.19 worth of liens by the federal government for unreported income taxes between 1944 and 1950.

Three income tax liens, against all property owned by Georgetti and his wife, Velma, were filed Monday with County Recorder Ruth Kirste.

Walter Valdi, head of the San Francisco field division of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, said similar liens were being filed in all counties where Georgetti owns property.

"This results from an investigation of Georgetti's income, and is not for any delinquency in taxes," Valdi declared.

"In filing his returns for those years he understated the amount of his income. These liens are based on unreported income."

Harold Robinson, chief investigator for the Kefauver committee, charged the operations of the Willow Tree, notorious Colma gambling joint, netted $700,000 in one year—and that Georgetti got the bulk of the money.

"All members of the committee," McClellan said today, "are actively working to elect Judge Creedon to the State Assembly on June 3. I personally am convinced Creedon has all necessary qualifications to best represent interests of the 25th District in Sacramento. He has lived on the peninsula from early boyhood and since his entry into public life in 1946, has made it his business to study problems of peninsula cities and their citizens.

"As a combat veteran of World War II and a member of American Legion Post 82, he is familiar with problems of servicemen and veterans, a group of which makes up a large percentage of our local population. THOSE WHO SEE ACCIDENTS SHOULD OFFER TO SERVE

Nothing in the law obliges those present at the scene of an accident to give their names as possible witnesses if the case should go to court. But something, points out the National Automobile Club, in the spirit of good citizenship and of the Golden Rule does.

If we expect to see justice done in our courts it is up to all of us to do what we can to bring the true facts of a case before the judge and jury, and if it so happens that we are present when an accident happens, and we see that accident, we are in an excellent position to bring these facts to light.

The next time you are present at an accident, offer to serve as a witness should the case come to court. By doing so you will be a better citizen and a better person. And the justice that you see done may very well be someday done to you.

"NECESSARY EVILS"

We hear a lot from time to time about "necessary evils," points out the National Automobile Club. Passing another car on the street or highway may often be necessary but it depends upon the individual driver whether or not it is an evil. Responsible drivers make of passing a safe and sane practice. Irresponsible drivers pass when there is insufficient clearance ahead, pass on the right side of cars on a two-lane highway, pass at intersections, when approaching the crest of a hill, or when rounding a curve, and so make of passing a thing of death and destruction. If passing is necessary, let us keep it from being an evil.

Hillsborough Estate Setting For Rose Show

"Roseacre" the Hillsborough estate of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill A. Newman, where almost every known variety of rose listed in catalogs of California growers and nurserymen is represented, will be the locale for the San Mateo County Rose Society's sixth annual rose show and tea on Sunday, May 4th.

This event has become a "must" on the calendars of garden lovers throughout the Bay Area and General Chairman Henry Campbell advises that rose society members throughout the country are busy in their gardens grooming roses in the hope of winning one of the many trophies, medals and certificates offered each year.

In addition to club members competing for prizes, garden clubs and florists will compete for trophies given for "rose arrangements."

This year it is anticipated that the famed Santa Clara Weepers will attract a maximum of attention on show day. These unique rose trees originated with a Jesuit priest at Santa Clara University. They are called "Santa Clara Pink" and are a weeping rose budded six feet high, with long canes weeping to the ground, bearing blooms approximately every three inches.

Garden's A Legend

SHOT PUTTER BOB DAVIS HEAVES THE LEAD for Coach Ernie Ribera's Jefferson high school track squad. Ribera's boys were lost in the maze at the giant, 52-school Cal Aggies meet last Saturday at Davis. Outlook was brighter Tuesday, though, when 21 of the Jeff trackmen qualified in the PAL preliminaries at San Mateo. Next stop—semi-finals. (Photo by Pat Corner)

Twenty-One Jeffs Qualify In Prelims

One way or another, Jefferson High was determined to come home from San Mateo Tuesday night with something to smile about.

So while the Jeff baseball team was going down to inglorious defeat, Coach Ernie Ribera's track squad qualified 21 out of 23 men in the Peninsula Athletic League's northern division preliminary meet.

High-spot came when Jerry Yarborough walked off with the class "B" 330 race, despite an injury sustained at last Thursday's three-way meet with South City and Capuchino.

Also placing for the semi-finals run-off in the "B's" were Schenone, 660; Coates, 660; Villa and Sullivan, 1320; Webb and Schenone, 150; and Miller, low and high hurdles.

In the "C" weight division, Simms and Curtner placed in the 75, Simms and Harris in the 150, Curtner and Marshall in the 330, and Harris in the low hurdles.

Varsity-men ready for the semi-finals are Douglas and Monsen, 440; Peden and Daniels, high hurdles; Peden alone in the low hurdles; Bollinger, Parish, Clayberg and Anderson in the 880; and Larsen in the mile event.

Semi-finals for the lightweights will be this afternoon, Thursday, April 12, on the Jeff oval. And tomorrow the varsity travels to Palo Alto for their run-offs.

After the long jaunt last Saturday to the Cal Aggies meet at Davis—52 schools participating—the Jeffs came back with one show spot to boast of. Al Schenone placed third in the "B" class half-mile run. A deed not normally worth mention, but in this case made outstanding by the fact that there were no less than 40 entries in the race.

In the triangular meet last Thursday with South City and Capucino, the Jeffs went down in the 20's and 30's but managed to grab top spot in the varsity division.

Schenone and Yarborough kept their reputations clean by setting new top times for the season in, respectively, the 660 and 330.

Schenone breezed through the longer run in 1:28.8, a close tenth off the previous mark of San Mateo's Arterburn.

Yarborough likewise shaved a hair off San Mateo's Gilkey's 330 mark of :38.3.

Half-Million Will Open Trout Fishing Next Saturday

An estimated half-a-million California anglers were making plans today to open the first of two trout angling seasons which begins Saturday, May 3, in most of the state.

Prospects for hooking the daily bag limit of 15 trout, salmon or mountain whitefish are generally poor, according to preseason predictions advanced by state fish and game wardens. They blamed almost universal high water and snow conditions for the expected sub-normal openers.

Also on the open list May 3 will be Tahoe, Donner, Boca, Almanor, Butte, and Pillsbury lakes and Stone, Big, Freshwater and Clam Beach lagoons in Humboldt county.

A May 30 opening will be in effect in Tuolumne, Alpine, Amador, Calaveras, El Dorado, Placer, Nevada, Sierra, Plumas, Lassen, Del Norte and Modoc counties. Easterly portions of Shasta and Tehama counties and waters tributary to the Pacific Ocean on the coast of Humboldt county are included in the late season.

Throughout the state, trout angling ends October 31.

Equipped with a 1952 angling license, sportsmen may go after trout from one hour before sunrise to one hour after sunset during the six-month open season. In Bucks Lake, Plumas county, trout may be taken at any hour of the day or night.

There is no closed trout season in the Colorado River Area.

Printed copies of the new angling regulations are now available at Department of Fish and Game offices and license agencies.

West Coast Nature School Set For San Jose

Registration has opened for the sixteenth session of the West Coast Nature School, which annually offers three consecutive weeks of study in three of California's most popular summer resorts.

The 1952 session will include a week at Yosemite National Park, (June 15-21) a week at Fallen Leaf Lake in the Lake Tahoe region (June 22-28) and a week at Asilomar on the Monterey Peninsula (June 29-July 5).

Students enrolled in the West Coast Nature School spend one day on a field trip with each of the instructors so that by the end of the week they have covered all of the subjects offered, such as trees, insects, flowers, birds, geology, and mammals. No textbooks are required and there is no "homework." Two (quarter) units of college credit can be earned in each of the one-week sessions.

Jeffs Split Last Two; Meet Lincoln Tomorrow

There just doesn't seem to be a happy medium for the Jefferson Indians.

Last Friday they romped over San Jose to the terrific tune of 11-1. Tuesday they traveled to San Mateo and watched eight of the Mateans trot across home plate. Jeff runs?—zero.

Lead-off pitcher Don Delbon took the mound for the San Mateo game and lasted just shy of six innings, allowing eight hits in that time. Relief came when Chuck Carroll took over the hurlers chores and allowed one more.

The Jeffs picked up three hits all told. Catcher Bryan McMahon cracked out a would be homer in the fourth that, according to Coach Clarence Lair, should have gone over the fence. However, someone seemed to have planted a tree in the way, and the ball bounced back in play. McMahon was credited with a double.

Remaining two hits came from right fielder Bob Schlopfer in the fifth and Dick Trantham, second baseman, in the third. Trantham, incidentally, is currently rated number two hitter in the PAL. His five for seven gives him an average of .714.

For the San Jose game there is a much happier tale to be told. Playing on their own ground, the San Joseans nevertheless managed to accumulate a total of seven errors to contribute their share to their own defeat.

The Jeffs were pleased to help things along by picking up seven hits. Shortstop Ray Rosa and catcher McMahon grabbed themselves two each and Schlopfer and Trantham collected one each.

High score man for the Jeffs in the comedy of errors was third baseman Don Wilson, who failed to connect at the plate but still tallied four runs.

Pitcher was Joe Lewkowitz, who stuck to the mound throughout the game, allowing three hits and making eight San Joseans wonder how three strikes had gone by so quickly.

At present, the Jeffs have played four PAL games, dividing them equally between two wins and two losses. Six games remain to be played before the league play-offs.

Tomorrow, Friday, April 25, they meet Lincoln.

Daly City Sportswomen Aid Lake Merced Fishing

The Daly City Sportswomen held their regular meeting on April 16 at the home of Mrs. Leonora O'Neill, 1044 Gilman drive, Broadmoor Village.

Miss Irene Maloney, president of the organization, presided at the meeting.

Business conducted included the induction of two new members, Mrs. Agnes Watson and Mrs. Jerry Glenn, both of San Francisco, and a report from the seventh district read by Mrs. Mildred Whineau.

The organization's support of the children's fishing program at Lake Merced will be continued this year in the same manner as last, it was reported.

Fishing floats in the North Lake are being repaired and made safe, and the north end of the South Lake is currently being filled in to allow more bank fishing. This area was formerly under shallow water and overgrown with tules.

The organization also conducted a drive to place saving banks in local clubs and business houses. Proceeds to be derived therefrom will go to purchase fishing equipment for children at Lake Merced.

The Sportswomen will hold their next meeting May 14 at the home of Mrs. Vivian Crispi, 1 Parma street, Daly City. At the meeting, the Daly City Sportswomen will host the San Francisco Sportswomen.

Burlingame Firemen Wait For Passing Train

BURLINGAME—Everyone gets out of the way of a fire engine, except freight trains.

The entire Burlingame fire department—on its way to a blaze east of Southern Pacific tracks here—sat it out for three minutes while a 50-car freight train roared through town.

When the train passed, the firemen rushed on, only to find that they had the wrong address. When they finally found the fire, it proved to be a very small one caused by a short-circuit.

Bat Busters Top "A" Division Play

By D. SIENES

The Colma Bat Busters walked away with the Recreation's softball league, A division, last Saturday by pounding the Colma Dragons to the tune of 24 to 4.

Although the A League has been settled, the B League is still in dispute.

Bob Bailey and Jerry Gruenwald smashed the Bat Busters to victory, as Cortez pitched his usual fine game. Darrel Hall, Grubb, Cullen, Marquez, Del Pate, and Marshall all added to the devastating victory.

The Dragons tried, but Funkhouser, Lavazzano, Alarcin, and Klisner could gather no more than four runs.

OLPH rushed into second place as they rolled over the Colma Pirates 34 to 6. After the game, base-paths had to be re-seeded. As a result of this game the Pirates occupy the cellar position in the league.

In the "B" League, the first placed Colma Scavengers moved up another notch as they buried the Colma Yankees 19 to 1.

Rocchi pitched a fine game as Miceli, Cosner, and Duncan hit the ball with consistency. Machi, Arrigli, and Rancatose played fine ball for the losers.

The Colma Tigers moved into second place as they beat their close rivals the Colma Wolverines in the best game of the day, 7 to 2.

Rasmussen, Mack, Atteberry, Mecchi, Davis, Donham, Richardson, and Supanich played a tight defensive game as well as hitting nicely. Gardiner, Dunham, Rossie, Low, McGee, Kingler, and Brobeck played good ball but could not hold the Tigers.

The "B" League will be decided this Saturday. The following games will be played at Marchbanks Playground:

OLPH vs. Colma Tigers
Scavengers vs. Wolverines
Indians vs. Colma Yankees

Final standings in the "A" League are:

	W	L
Colma Bat Busters	4	0
OLPH	2	2
Colma Dragons	2	2
Colma Pirates	0	4

Plan New Leagues At Marchbanks For Baseballers

Baseball and softball are getting a big boost these days at Marchbanks field. Six days of the week, the field's facilities are available to student ballplayers of all ages.

Plans are currently being formulated for a league of high-school age hardballers. At this writing, only two teams are engaged in active play, but it is hoped that enough new teams will be formulated to justify the formation of a league.

Play now starts after school on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and openings are available for any and all interested in participating.

For the younger set—grades four through six—a hardball and softball clinic is held on Wednesday afternoons at the field. Plans are underway for a summer league here.

The seventh and eighth graders, of course, have long had their own league, and have been playing softball for the past month. This league is drawing rapidly to a close, with only a few games in the series remaining to be played. Game time is on Saturdays, practice sessions on Mondays and Fridays.

Vince And Fred's Down Johnny's Billiards 9-6

Handicapped because only seven of their regular team members put in an appearance, Vince and Fred's Liquors still managed to come out topside in last Sunday's diamon tilt with Johnny's Billiards.

Playing at the Marchbanks field, the V and F-men rolled over their opponents 9-6. Lack of complete turnout was explained by Vince:

"I didn't know the game was going to be played myself until the last minute."

Star of the game was Mickey DeBernardi, who doubled at first base and the pitcher's mound. DeBernardi gave up one hit in his five innings on the mound, and fanned eight of the Billiardmen.

The game was Vince and Fred's first in over a month and a half. From now on, games will be held each Sunday afternoon at Marchbanks.

Brown--Likas Win Tourney

Comes the week-end and Tom Brown, Daly City attorney, becomes Tom Brown, tennis player. The latter fellow seems to consistently end up a winner in local net tourneys.

Last week-end was no exception to this rule, for Brown made off for Burlingame and the 32nd annual men's doubles championships held at the Burlingame Country club.

There he joined with partner Harry Likas, Jr., and together they walked off with the tournament's top spot. This in spite of the fact that the Brown-Likas team was third seeded for the meet.

The pair defeated Larry Dee and Ed Amark in four sets to gain their win. Set scores run 6-1, 4-6, 6-4, and 6-2.

In semi-finals play they downed Ellis Slack and Ralph Gish, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3. Slack and Gish rank ninth in the nation-wide rating of men's doubles teams.

Handicapped by a shoulder injury that weakened his serve, Brown heads for Pebble Beach this week-end to resume his part in the single's tourney there, which was called two weeks ago because of rain.

Brown will meet Gilbert Shey, formerly of Los Angeles and now of the U. S. Army, in semi-final play Saturday. Winner of the Brown-Shey match will come up against Jerry DeWitt in the finals, slated for Sunday.

The hubub of tournament play, of course, is old stuff to Brown, who was a member of the 1950 Davis Cup team, and who has reached the finals at Forest Hills and Wimbledon, England on more than one occasion.

Local conclaves—such as the Bay Counties, Burlingame and Pebble Beach meets—lead up to the forthcoming coast championships.

And after that comes Forest Hills, the tennis-world's equivalent to the World's Series.

SAN QUENTIN ROLLS OVER SARTO AC 7-5

Sarto AC, fresh from five straight wins, trekked across the Bay last Sunday to pay a visit to Duffy's Tavern—better known as the California State Prison at San Quentin.

Playing a well-attended game within the well-quarded walls, the local team went down to a 7-5 defeat, after leading 4-0 until the sixth.

The five runs came from Costa, Nordstrom, Schubeck, Norry and pitcher Bill Rainey. Rainey kept to the mound throughout the game.

Team mentor Joe Sarto reports a nice gallery of 3000 or so spectators on hand. Also watching was former warden Clint Duffy, now parole board chairman.

Sarto reports that when he offered to host the San Quentin team for a game at Marchbanks, Duffy merely smiled.

Tally for the game shows the Sartomen eked out their five runs from 35 trips to the plate and nine hits. The San Quentin team came up 34 times and grabbed off seven for seven.

This Sunday, April 27, the local boys return to Marchbanks for a 12 noon game with Marty's

The National Geographic Society was founded in 1888 "for the increase and diffusion of geographic knowledge."

DOLAN WRECKING AND BUILDING SUPPLY CO., at 6939 Mission St., is a treasure trove for troubled home builders—the kind that need a door, a piece of pipe, some used brick, etc. and etc.! The place is huge and there is no objection to lookers who like to poke around on the off chance of finding just what they need. Joe Dolan summed it up when I asked him if he had many individual customers come in to browse—"Lots of them" he replied. "Anything they don't or can't find anyplace else—they find here." So why waste time? Drive to DOLAN'S first. . . .

Right across the street from Dolan's is the WESTLAKE MAPLE SHOP, at 6940 Mission St., which displays—and sells—some of the finest Eastern Maple furniture I have ever seen. But, what impressed me most about this really beautiful and impressive store, was the tremendous selection of gift priced and gift sized china and bric-a-brac. For gifting, go to the WESTLAKE MAPLE SHOP! Believe me, you will find a gift to please even the most fastidious taste—and a price to fit YOUR pocketbook, too!

No mother of a five or six year-old-son will be surprised at this quote from a small boy seen and heard bouncing up and down on the seat of a No. 14 bus from San Francisco. He had obviously been a long time on the road and his mother was just as obviously trying to ignore the fact. . . . Finally, with a strained face the boy stopped bouncing and announced loudly, "Mother! Tell the bus man to show me the powder room—or," he continued in a horrified tone, "I'll have to find it sitting down!"

And, speaking of powder rooms—if your's needs refurbishing around the shower, tub, toilet or towel bars, why not take a look at TOM TROMBORG'S shop and plumbing supplies? Everything is modern and prices go from very reasonable to moderate to—more—and all are GOOD! And for fixing faulty plumbing in the home, let me go on record as saying that TROMBORG'S can't be beat! When they do a job that job is done RIGHT and reasonably, too!

Men who like to swim and sun themselves will find glamour and comfort galore in the gorgeous "Gantner" sport shirts 'n swim shorts now on sale at BERNING'S MEN'S STORE in Broadmoor. Made of long wearing "Luana" cloth, the items are made to match—and catch everyone's eyes! Sets sell for $10.95, but singles are available at moderate prices. Please take a look before you buy elsewhere. These are both home and vacation-wise values!

Accessory buys of the week at LESLIE'S in Broadmoor include round, oblong and "fisherman type" basket purses which are marvelous buys at $1.99—and would be good at even higher prices. And, you should see their new display of "summer white" jewelry!

HILDA'S CAKE SHOP, at 7388 Mission St., still has a sign out front saying Harry's Pastry—but don't let that stop you from buying one of those yummy and heavily frosted cakes in the window! Hilda's is open every day of the week from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.—Sundays 'till 1 p.m.. . . . And, if you like large "Dagwoods" try one of the old-fashioned loaves! One pound weight—18c.

Air Force Offers Direct Commissions

Because of the critical need for specialists, the Fourth Air Force will grant direct commissions to approximately 300 college graduates possessing the necessary qualifications, Maj. Gen. William E. Hall, commanding general of Fourth Air Force, announced today.

He said the greatest need is for officer specialists in communications; procurement and production, special investigation, legal, weather, psychological warfare, engineering and scientific fields.

Commissions will range from second lieutenant to lieutenant colonel, depending on age, education and experience. A bachelor's degree is required.

A limited number of college graduates with degrees in engineering, physics, chemistry or mathematics (or students who will receive such degrees this summer) will be appointed second lieutenants. They must have officers' basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex., and additional technical training. Those who had six month of military service in certain grades will skip the basic training.

Qualified applicants in the Fourth Air Force area (California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Utah and Arizona) should obtain details by writing at once to Commanding General, Headquarters Fourth Air Force, Hamilton Air Force Base, Hamilton, Calif.

Vets May Apply For State Loans

Low-Interest Financing Available

State low-interest financing of farms and homes is available now to California veterans of World War I, World War II and the Korean emergency, Floyd D. Granger, Veterans Service Officer of San Mateo County, reported today.

Applications for "Cal-Vet" financing are being accepted and processed as usual by the State Department of Veterans Affairs, Granger said, following the reopening April 16 of the farm and home purchase program.

Closed temporarily in February when available funds were exhausted, the program is operating now on a $55,000,000 appropriation, pending appearance of a $150,000,000 "Cal-Vet" bond authorization on the November ballot, Granger explained.

Qualified Vets

Qualified veterans can obtain up to $8,500 on the purchase of a home or up to $15,000 on a farm under the 31-year-old State program. Top allowable appraisal values are set at $11,500 on homes and $16,500 on farms, although the actual cost to the veteran can be higher.

Veterans repay the State's investment on long-term contracts at low interest—now 3 per cent. Their payments cover the cost of the bonds which finance the program as well as administrative costs, so that the plan requires no tax support, Granger pointed out.

Applications

Applications for certificates of eligibility for State farm and home financing, educational assistance and other "Cal-Vet" benefits are available at the Veterans Service Office's new location at 517 Marshall St., Redwood City (directly in back of the Courthouse).

More than 55,000 California veterans have purchased farms and homes on the State's plan, and some 270,000 have obtained certificates of eligibility as the first step in using their benefits, Granger noted.

Arrest Teen-Agers For Drunk Driving

An off-duty San Mateo policeman, Officer Cy Petty, arrested five 17 and 18-year-old high school youths early Saturday morning when he saw their car weaving down El Camino Real.

The 17-year-old driver spent the night in city jail after he failed to pass a sobriety test. The four teen-age passengers were released to their parents with orders to report to the court.

Judge Francis W. Murphy remanded four of the youths to juvenile authorities, but said that one would be kept "in my jurisdiction. He's been in trouble before."

Officer Petty reported that the car was being driven over the highway centerline, and brought back just in time to avoid on-coming traffic.

An empty beer case and three unopened cans of beer were found on the back seat of the car.

Civil Defense Coordinator Named

Governor Earl Warren has appointed retired Army Colonel John E. Ardrey, of Fresno, to the post of Regional Coordinator for Civil Defense Region 6. Announcement of the appointment to be effective May 5th was made here today by Maj. Gen. Walter M. Robertson, State Director of Civil Defense.

Fresno's Deputy Mayor George N. Hartwell also will resign his position to accept the Governor's appointment to replace Col. Ardrey as Assistant Regional Coordinator, according to the announcement. Col. Ardrey moves into the post vacated by the recall to active army duty of Col. Harry Braze.

He is a graduate of West Point, the Army Staff College at Leavenworth, Kansas, and the Army War College. He has been appointed coordinator of Region 6 since July, 1951.

Aviation Leaders Ask County-Owned Airport Facilities

Urging that San Mateo county start development of its own airport, M. L. Doolin, director of the California aeronautics commission, addressed a meeting of approximately 200 business, civic and aviation leaders recently.

"San Mateo county's unfortunate aviation situation has become the number one problem of the California aeronautics commission. It must be solved and can only be solved by development of a county-owned airport," Doolin insisted.

Doolin reported that an airport installation costing approximately $850,000 would cost the county only $391,000. Remainder of the cost would be paid for by the federal government under its plan to aid in the development of national airport facilities.

A field of such size, he said, could reasonably be expected to bring the county a profit of nearly $95,000 yearly.

Action taken at the meeting included appointment of George Van Vliet, director of aviation studies at the San Mateo junior college, as chairman for a "Committee for the Development of a Public Airport in San Mateo county."

Continuing his argument, Doolin said: "From the tourist angle, from the civilian defense angle, San Mateo county needs an airport. A public airport is a legitimate enterprise for a public body. It is a requirement of local government to supply a runway and airport facilities for private fliers."

Doolin added that the commission which he heads will devote the next two years toward the development of peninsula air facilities.

San Mateo Group Calls For Upping Poll Closing Time

San Mateo commuters surveyed over the week by merchants have indicated great enthusiasm over the San Mateo Chamber of Commerce Government Affairs Committee proposed project to extend the closing hour of the voting polls in San Mateo.

Jerry Joroslow, chairman of the Governmental Affairs Committee, states that over 200 commuters who were contacted by San Mateo merchants were very enthusiastic and pointed out that it is nearly impossible for many of them to get to the polls and vote before 7 p.m. in the evening.

"If San Francisco can keep the voting polls open until 8 p.m., there is no reason why we cannot keep them open here until 8 p.m. or 9 p.m.," Joroslow said.

Keith Sorenson, assistant district attorney, in the office of Louis B. Dematteis, district attorney, is investigating the possibilities of having the polls remain open longer and will have a report ready for the committee meeting next week, according to Joroslow.

The Government Affairs Committee has contacted labor leaders and Democratic and Republican leaders who have indicated that they will back the chamber committee's proposal.

Thomas Callan, candidate for the board of supervisors, this week officially endorsed the committee's project.

Tavern Owners To Hold Meet Monday

The annual meeting of the San Mateo County Restaurant-Tavern Owners' association will be held Monday at 8:30 p.m. at the Chukker in San Mateo, it has been announced by Harry A. Kramer, president.

A clarification and explanation of the new office of price stabilization (OPS) regulations affecting the restaurant industry will be one of the main subjects on the agenda.

The new board of directors will be elected and installed.

Organized less than a year ago, the association is a clearing-house for matters affecting the restaurant and tavern industry in the county.

Broadmoor Cops Get New Headquarters; Buy, Equip Ambulance With Own Funds

Everybody talks about taxes—to coin a paraphrase—but nobody does anything about them.

Noboday, that is, but the Broadmoor Police Department.

The Broadmoor cops have supplied themselves with much of the necessary equipment a police department requires to serve the taxpayers—at no cost to said taxpayers.

And in the process of acquiring the requisite equipment, Chief Paul Schmidt and his force have shifted their headquarters no less than four times.

They have operated out of filling stations, construction offices, the basement of one of their commissioner's home, and may currently be found in a neat little office-bungalow at 388 Eighty-eighth street.

With the frequent changes in location has also come a steady increase in size, until now there are five full-time and 25 reserve members of the Broadmoor force. Not to mention the three department commissioners, Pat Patey, Armando Ferraris and Val Olson.

The equipment that was acquired without taking a bite out of the taxpayer's wallet includes uniforms for each and every one of the force's regular and reserve members, plus their latest and proudest addition—nine hundred and fifty dollars worth of ambulance. The ambulance being replete with sirens, stretchers, first-aid equipment, etc.

To gather the cash necessary for such purchases, they resorted to a trick of the law enforcement trade that has long been laughed at—a policeman's ball.

Their first dance, held in 1951, brought in enough money to purchase uniforms all around. The second, held last March 29 at Colombo hall in Colma, paid off a goodly share of the ambulance cost, the remainder coming from the sale of old equipment.

Chief Schmidt reports his department is already looking forward to next year. As long as people like to dance, the sky's their limit.

PATCH THE DRIVEWAY

Don't allow a driveway surface that needs patching to go unattended, advices the National Automobile Club. A patch in time reduces the cost of driveway maintenance very considerably as many car owners discover after it is too late.

San Mateo J. C. To Slate Open House

San Mateo Junior College will have open house Thursday evening, May 1, as its regular part of Public Schools Week. At that time the public is invited to visit the campus on Baldwin avenue and Delaware, where the different departments will be in operation.

Last year hundreds of men, women and high school students from the entire county visited the college to obtain a view of the buildings, departments, equipment and work offered.

Faculty members and students will be on hand to guide visitors about the different buildings. In addition, many of the evening classes will be operating.

Some of the many departments to be open for inspection include the radio studio, radio shop, art, drama, machine shop, aviation, homemaking, the cooperative nursery, ceramics, county museum and the many science departments.

Parents of students in the college are urged to attend open house and meet the faculty members who are teaching their children.

DON'T RACE LIGHTS

Some motorists seem to take great delight in racing the traffic lights at busy intersections, according to the National Automobile Club. Apparantly they feel that if they make it across that intersection at fifty miles per hour while the lights are changing from yellow to red they are gaining themselves a few minutes time. Such a motorist should stop to consider what good it will do him to gain a minute if he loses his life.

POWER FOR STARTING

"There's plenty of power in this engine to start in high gear on the level," the car owner defended himself. But he overlooked the fact that there is not so much power in the clutch, points out the National Automobile Club. The old rule still holds that the clutch slips slightly even when starting in low, more in second, and still more in high gear. This slippage invariably results in clutch wear and is to be avoided as much as possible.

Callan Supports Move To Extend Voting Time

A move to extend San Mateo county polls' closing time from 7 p.m. to a later hour was advocated today by Thomas Callan, candidate for the county board of supervisors.

Callan pledged to fully support the change as recommended by the government affairs committee of the San Mateo Chamber of Commerce. He noted the later hour will afford commuters, who do not arrive home before 7 p.m., an opportunity to vote.

In a letter to Jerry Joroslow, chairman of the government affairs committee, Callan said:

"I wholeheartedly endorse your plan to work for a change in state election laws to permit the counties to set their own polling place voting hours."

"In too many of our elections we have too few people voting. We should all do everything we can to encourage more of the American people to take an active interest in exercising their voting franchise."

"By extending voting hours . . . we will be encouraging more people to vote with the result we should have more representative and better government."

"Please call on me for any support that you may feel helpful . . . for extending the closing time of voting polls."

County Groups To Study Narcotics

An educational meeting on the narcotics problem, open to the public, will be held at 8:30 p.m. on April 28 at Baywood theatre under joint sponsorship of San Mateo chamber of commerce, county school superintendent's office, the sheriff's office, American Legion, the Ministerial association and the County Medical society.

The meeting will be open to adults only, with 21 the minimum age limit. Parents in particular are urged to attend.

The committee directed Sheriff Earl Whitmore to contact state and federal narcotics authorities to send representatives to the meeting to join in a panel for discussion of narcotics. Efforts also are underway to obtain the latest narcotics educational film available for showing at the meeting.

Younger Explains New County Status

For the first time in its history San Mateo county will have its own representative in Washington next year, as a result of the reapportionment of four Northern California counties into two separate congressional districts, with San Mateo county now known as the 9th Congressional District.

As explained by Arthur Younger, Republican candidate for congressman from San Mateo county, recent census figures revealed the need for individual representation from San Mateo county, due to its rapidly expanding population as well as the commercial and residential growth of the county. Younger pointed out that many persons who have recently registered as voters in San Mateo county may not be aware of the fact that their elected congressional candidate will represent this area exclusively when he takes his oath of office in Washington in January, 1953.

"San Mateo county can well be proud of the fact that it is now recognized as an area of individual importance, with needs and problems commensurate with its leading position among California communities," Younger stated.

"Due to San Mateo's new status as a congressional district, the people of this county will have assurance that their interests will have my exclusive attention if I am chosen to represent them," Younger said. "My experience as a businesman and my knowledge of our particular local needs will serve as a guide to my activities in Washington on behalf of San Mateo county residents," Younger concluded.

Rat-Bitten Child Treated At Junipero Serra Hosp.

Treatment was given recently in Junipero Serra hospital to a 22-month-old Montara baby who was attacked and bitten by a rat.

The child, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Robinson, Montara, screamed when the rate attacked her. He cries brought her mother from another part of the house.

Mrs. Robinson reported that she saw a large grey rat drop from the child's crib and ran away as she entered the room. It had bitten the baby on the little finger of her left hand.

The child was returned home after emergency treatment at the hospital.

School District Is Requested To Hire Minority Teachers

The San Mateo elementary school district has been asked to pioneer the hiring of minority race teachers for the forthcoming school year.

Selection of teachers for 20 posts is slated for some time after May 1. To date a total of 120 applicants have filed, five of them members of racial minority groups. Three are Negroes and two of Japanese extraction.

Pleas to the school board to hire members of racial minority groups were led off by Mrs. Alec Skolnick, chairman of the Mid-Peninsula Council for Civic Unity. She said the issue at stake was one of the promotion and inculcation of Democratic principles in school children. She emphasized that youngsters learning from a teacher who was a member of a minority group would get a lasting object lesson in American idealism.

Chairman Dr. D. A. McLachlan, speaking for the trustees, replied that at no time had the issue of race, color or creed been a matter of consideration in selecting qualified school teachers for the district. He said, "We are in full accord that in the future, as in the past, we will select teachers on the basis of merit and qualification. By that we mean not just a degree, but the consideration of other important qualifications necessary in a good teacher. There are 120 applicants for 20 jobs, and any minority group applicant will be given as much consideration as any other."

Verducci Supports Bocci Campaign

Frank Blum, city attorney, in charge of the committee for the reelection of Judge Thomas L. Bocci, Jr., today announced that councilman Joseph Verducci of Westlake has thrown his support to Judge Bocci.

Frank Blum further noted that Verducci was recently elected for city councilman of Daly City, with the highest number of votes cast. Verducci has indicated that he finds Judge Bocci to be highly qualified for the office of Municipal Judge and is supporting him because of his fine background and his record of past achievements.

In an interview with Judge Bocci it was stated that the support of Verducci should be a determing factor in swinging a great number of votes in the newly created subdivisions throughout the Northern District.

"Joseph Verducci represents the more recent residents of our county and certainly his support is a strong indication that the newer residents are swinging to Judge Bocci's side."
